

Terri A. Kuchulis

Certified Public Accountant

Philosophy

The value of strong collaborative relationships is extremely important and drives every aspect of your business.

A sincere partnership is formed between us as we work together towards meeting your business needs.

Listening to you and understanding both your concerns -- what keeps you up at night -- and your needs is critical to identifying options and developing practical plans for now and the future.

Together we collaborate to design a plan that best fits your situation and needs.

You deserve superior service, high quality work and an excellent value.

You will always receive personal attention to all of your needs in the most cost effective manner possible.

In addition to providing you with high quality work, I strive to transfer knowledge to you and your business that you can use in the future.

I truly believe my success is a result of your success!

Exploring how your company can benefit is easy - call or email me now to arrange a time to discuss your business needs.
